

O9A 2018-2022: The Good And The Bad News

Since 2018 the Order of Nine Angles (O9A, ONA, ω9α) has received unprecedented worldwide publicity which some O9A folk might say has been bad publicity with others saying all publicity is or can be good.

The publicity includes calls by our opponents - mostly antifascists or those like politicians and journalists who sympathize with antifascist ideology - for the O9A to be banned by governments as a terrorist organization with O9A literature removed from the Internet and possession of it made illegal. This call is in tandem with David Myatt - alleged by antifascists and others to be Anton Long and founder of the O9A, an allegation he has always denied - being declared in 2021 as one of the 20 most dangerous extremists in the world. {1}

Among the good news is that governments have finally decided - after much pro-O9A propaganda by the likes of the TWS Nexion {2} - that the O9A cannot be banned because it is a leaderless movement/subculture/philosophy not a group with members and a hierarchy and leader. Even the rabid antifascist Bigot Lowles has come to accept this although his persona demands that he occasionally makes noises to the contrary while trying to out-psych the O9A by telling lies about and mocking Mr M since he fanatically believes that Myatt=Long, hates Mr M with a Hebraic Old Testament passion and has this fantasy that by discrediting Mr M he can somehow discredit the O9A which he rants "are as barbaric as they come".

The bad news? Is there any? Only if you believe the FBI anti-O9A campaign {3} was bad news with its disinformation, believed by antifascists and mundanes, that the O9A condoned rape, misogyny and paedophilia.

Has that well-funded State-sponsored campaign split the O9A? No, since nexions are born, learn, evolve or fade away as the folk within them or which are them learn, or evolve or find other interests and enthusiasms. But an aeonic core always remains as the decades precess, and carries on what is now our ancestral tradition.

Among other good news is that the anti-Magian stance of the O9A has come to the forefront with the O9A now taking firmer root in certain groups and certain types of people because of its positive approach to what is in our societies the heresy of National Socialism and the O9A rejection of the new religion of holocaustianity. {4} For being O9A is now exoterically perceived as being pro-NS - whether of the neo-nazi or the Reichsfolk variety - and being anti-holocaustianity. In other words, ω9α is Heresy, with holocaustianity and the 21st century hypocritical intolerant antifascism which is embedded within it scheduled to replace Christianity as the drug of Homo Hubris.

{4} Holocaustianity is a modern faith where (i) believers insist that the truth of the Holocaust cannot or should not be questioned or doubted, (ii) believers make a solemn promise that they will never forget what their stories say are "Nazi crimes" and what their books describe as happened in the Holocaust, (iii) believers demand that those who question or doubt the Holocaust should be publicly shamed and punished: tried as criminals and imprisoned; (iv) believers hold regular public ceremonies where the Holocaust described in their books and stories is solemnly remembered; (v) believers seek to have governments, especially in the West, hold regular public ceremonies where their Holocaust is solemnly remembered; (vi) believers demand that their version of the Holocaust as described in their books be taught to all school-children who should make regular pilgrimages to what they insist are sites where the Holocaust took place.

Fused Extremism: More Academic Propaganda

A new purportedly academic research article titled The ONA Network and the Transnationalization of Neo-Nazi-Satanism has been published, in the journal Studies in Conflict & Terrorism, written by Ariel Koch who teaches at Reichman University situated in the city of Herzliya in the Zionist entity that currently occupies Palestine.

The bias of the article is revealed in several things, including the fact that despite being written in November/December last year (2021) the author: (i) does not include any mention of or reference to the O9A side of the story in relation to the disinformation spread about the O9A by an FBI agent provocateur since 2018, {1} (ii) does not mention that the source of such disinformation was an FBI agent provocateur, (iii) cites Media articles, and the lies and rants of Bigot Lowles (seven times), about the O9A, none of which sources provide evidential facts about the O9A but which do include antifascist propaganda such as that the O9A has "members" and a leader, is misogynistic, incites rape and so on; (iv) accepts without question Media and antifascist claims that the O9A and its literature "influenced" or "incited" individuals to commit crimes without mentioning what literature, without defining what "influenced" means in this context, and without providing evidence of who did such alleged influencing; and (v) did not bother to contact the O9A nexion in Oxford who could have provided a balanced view of "the ONA network" and of anti-O9A propaganda, despite their contact details being readily available because known to a journalist (Hanrahan) and through a "social media" account.

The result is an article based, like many other items dealing with the O9A, on the fallacies of (a) suppressed evidence, (b) argumentum ad ignorantiam, (c) secundum quid et simpliciter, and (d) argumentum ad verecundiam. Suppressed evidence because the O9A side of the story is ignored, never mentioned, or actively suppressed; argumentum ad ignorantiam because it is asserted that no one has proved the O9A is not what it has been claimed to be; secundum quid et simpliciter because a generalization about the O9A is made based on the actions or beliefs of a few who are alleged to be O9A or who claim to be O9A; and argumentum ad verecundiam because someone considered to be an "authority" on the subject, or the opinion of some person(s) or journalist(s) or propagandist, are repeated and believed without the author doing their own research using primary sources such as, in the matter of the O9A, the published writings of Anton Long, 1976-2012. {2}

In addition, the author commits the now common metaphysical error of considering the O9A in terms of manufactured abstractions, in this case not only in the usual stereotyped ones of "neo-nazism" and "satanism" - with all their pejorative (moral) connotations in ideological and personal/psychological terms, and an embedded notion of opposites and dialectic {3} - but also a new abstraction which he manufactures and terms "Fused Extremism" which has its own embedded notion of opposites, dialectic, and pejorative connotations. To paraphrase the author: Fused Extremism is the result of a process in which members of a violent extremist in-group derive inspiration from one or more out-group forms of violent extremism.

Nothing new or unbiased there, then, with Ariel Koch no doubt fated to join the likes of Della E. Campion, Jacob Senholt, Goodrick-Clarke, and Bigot Lowles as a Magian-approved "authority" on the O9A. {4}

The Star Game

A new article about The Star Game is available which includes the above photographic image of the game and illustrations from the 1989 facsimile edition of the primary O9A text Naos. According to the article:

"The Star Game (TSG) in its original septenary form is a modern strategic and tactical game for two players: a more complicated type of chess which has been played as such for decades by a discerning few. This essay concentrates on the original 1975 Star Game, its hermetic origins and its significance as a challenging, modern, and alchemical game which can aid the hermetic quest (ἄνοδος) for Lapis Philosophicus."
