

The O9A As A Minor Example

The Order of Nine Angles (ONA, O9A) is just a very minor example of how the Establishment {1} and its Deep-State minions can and does change and has changed the public perception of an individual, or a group, or an organization.

In the case of the O9A they had a paid asset - Sutter - establish a fake O9A nexion and produce black propaganda {2} which they and the mass media used to defame the O9A. As so often happens Joe and Jane Public, and journalists and even many academics, were conned by such black propaganda and the entrapment of an individual such as Ethan Melzer {3} and came to believe the O9A really was an influential neo-nazi entity with 'members' and associates who preached violent revolution, misogyny, terrorism, and who advocated rape and paedophilia.

The premise of the Establishment and its Deep-State minions is now, and has been for decades, that immoral means were justified against those groups, organizations, and individuals they deemed to be or accepted as being 'enemies'. Hence, for example, the torture of detainees at Abu Ghraib; the rendition and detention, without due process of law, of suspects to Guantanamo Bay; the killing of suspects, without due process of law, by drones in places such as Afghanistan, Iraq, and Yemen; and more recently not only supplying vast quantities of military hardware including fighter jets and cluster bombs to aid their proxy war against Russia, but providing intelligence so that certain individuals in Russia could be assassinated by one of their allies. Individuals such as Darya Dugina, Vladlen Tatarsky, and Stanislav Rzhitsky.

The reality is that the Establishment and its minions have lost their moral compass. In their hubris they consider lies, deception, and dishonourable deeds as acceptable and have done so for many decades.

Yet, as some of those belonging to what was 'the Inner O9A' have pointed out, such immoral tactics are, in the context of Aeons, futile. {4} For the current Establishment is, like all such human manufactured hubriatic entities in the past, doomed to decline and fall within a century or so, just as the ideas, the ideals, the excuses - the causal abstractions, the propaganda - that sustained them always have a limited causal life-span. And just as mortals such as Ramses II, Alexander, Caesar, Charlemagne, Stalin and Hitler with their dreams of Destiny would die with their manufactured entities, their 'empires', replaced.

The real question, however, is whether we mortals will or can learn from such examples; from such loss of that human moral compass and which loss has bedevilled us for millennia. It seems that attempts to replace this - such as Taoism, Buddhism, Jainism, Johannine Christianity (as exemplified by Julian of Norwich, George Fox, and William Penn) - have failed to persuade the majority of human beings.

To return to 'the Inner O9A', they now have a modern and individual and quite minor non-O9A methodology - The Hebdomian Way {5} - by means of which an individual can answer questions such as Quid est Veritas. But it is an open question whether that - and other more major and mainstream methodologies or spiritual ways - can forestall what currently seems to be inevitable for we hubriatic mortals.

{1} By 'the Establishment' is meant those who in modern Western societies have the power, the means, to influence and to shape 'public opinion' on matters political and social.

The Establishment thus includes politicians and the incumbent government and often the 'political opposition', large often multinational business enterprises, the mainstream Media (especially national newspapers and television and now internet news media and outlets), well-funded special-interest advocacy groups both political and business-orientated; established academics whose work has featured in mainstream publications, and so-called 'independent' or 'freelance' journalists whose work appears in or is cited by the mainstream Media.

An Establishment represents the orthodoxy, the zeitgeist, of a particular era, with adherence to or a belief in that orthodoxy a good indication of who or what is part of the Establishment, with the orthodoxy of the current Western era including the idée fixe that multiculturalism is 'good' and that those who oppose it are 'bad'.

{2} 'Black propaganda' is material which does not appear to be propaganda; whose real origins are concealed; which is misleading or designed to discredit, and which gives the impression it has been produced/circulated by a particular person or persons or by a particular group/organization or by a State-entity.

Black propaganda was used by Allied governments during the First and Second World Wars as well as during the 'Cold War', and also between the 1950s and 1970s by the FBI as part of a Counter Intelligence Program to discredit domestic American groups and individuals including the Ku Klux Klan, qv. <https://web.archive.org/web/20120910071729/http://www.icdc.com/~paulwolf/cointelpro/cointel.htm>

Decades ago, the British government also used black propaganda in relation to a politician in Kenya they disapproved of, as The Guardian newspaper reported in 2022: <https://www.theguardian.com/world/2022/aug/06/revealed-uk-ran-cold-war-dirty-tricks-campaign-to-smear-kenyas-first-vice-presidenoginga-odinga>

{4} Futile because all such denotata have a limited life-span - of decades and at most of centuries - by virtue of being human manufactured causal abstractions. As noted in Order of Nine Angles: Adieu in regard to Establishment claims:

"The Aeonian Perspective, central to O9A philosophy, [...] emphasized that the goal of creating new societies and a New Aeon would take centuries to be achieved. Hence, there is no concern with what some have termed 'the great replacement'; no need for so-called 'accelerationism'; and certainly no aim, no desire among us, as many mistakenly believe, to 'seek the violent overthrow [of] Western civilization through violent means,' be such means described by the Establishment and others as terrorism or otherwise. For not only will that causal entity termed Western civilization naturally decline and fall and be replaced in the not too distant future, probably within the next hundred years or so, but such violent means means will achieve little, if anything, of any consequence in Aeonian terms." <https://archive.org/download/o9a-validation/o9a-valediction.pdf>
